What is a Learning Community?

At Eastfield College a learning community is a group of students who take 2 or more classes together, work closely with professors and classmates, and successfully complete their first year.

Who should enroll in a Learning Community?

- First year students
- Continuing students
- Transfer students

Why should I enroll in a Learning Community?

- To make connections across the Learning Community cluster courses
- To feel more confident about being a college student
- To engage in campus events and study groups with your classmates
- To discover career opportunities by participating in guest speaker presentations, hands-on field trips, and other co-curricular activities
